The Providence (R. I.) Post says: "It as stated that an effort is being made by some manufacturers of woolen goods to induce the swners of mills throughout the an hand, and which, it is stated, are now has unsettled the market, so that all classes being sold at a less price than for the past of dealers are waiting and wondering thirty cents and gold at par. Unless this is done a further reduction in prices is anticipated and consequent embarrassment and failures among the manufacturers and those who have large stocks of goods on hand." A dispatch from Bangor, Maine dated the 20th inst, says:

The reasons given by the woolen manufacturers for the closing up of their mills are that the wool custs more in its original state than the unautacturered rooms sell for in the open market. Commissions also engross five per cent, and cash sales command a discount of four percent, while the fovernment duty on the gross amount of sales is five per cent. Dre stuffs and other or the wise heavily taxed; labor is high, and goods seld at the present time command only about two-thirds of their actual value. Although many of the factories have aircody supposed working, the glut of goods is still felt to the course of events, and close up until the dawn of better times.

Nine failures of boot and shoe manufacturers have been reported at Lynn, Massachasetts, during the last month. The failures are not for heavy amounts, but the Shoe and Leather Reporter says: "If the present dull spell in trade continues, more says: wilt be likely to go. If so, it will be all the better for the trade, as the anxiety of these weak parties to sell goods has unduly depressed the market, and induced buvers to believe that by holding off they could obtain goods at about their own prices. If not a case of goods were to be made or sold in Lynn for the next month the result would be beneficial."

The foreign imports at New York for the first ten months of the present and two previous years were valued as follows:

The imports, it will be seen by the foregoing statistics, have been on an enormous scale, and those for the month of October were as large as those for the corresponding month last year, soon after the great increase in the import trade of the country commenced. These large importations have continued undiminished during the whole of this long period, notwithstanding the high tari if which has been in force, In regard to ideadstuffs the St. Lonis Democrat of the 26th inst. says:

"The breadstaff market is somewhat unretitled with a downward tendency. Prices, however, use at a high range, and it is not very likely that a further material decline will occur; at least for some time. A difference of opinion prevails in regard to the yield of the late wheat harvest, one side megialaining that the grandly is the eros, to exportations and shipments to lake crost to exportations and shipments to lake posts, by which it would apper that large analysis are beld at various points, and that equally large amounts, perhaps, are still in the granuries of the producers. This statement has provoked a reply from a mercantile house in this city, which is given to the reader in this morning a paper. The impury can do no harm, for the sconer the truth about the matter is known, the better it will be for the producers and consumers. If plenty has crowned the labors of the hadrandman the blassing should be bors of the husbandman, the blessing should be generally diffused."

We have heard of a few sales of net hogs in this market at 8c. Yesterday holders were asking 9c, with no disposition on the part of consumers to buy. Large lots could not, perhaps, be sold at 8c. There was a break-down in prices in the Cincinnati hog market on the 26th inst., and $6,35 became an extreme figure for the best, with a range down to $5.75 for medium or light weights, Sales of dressed hogs were made as low as $7.25. The decline during the week ending that day amounted to fully 50c per hundred pounds. Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin and Iowa are the great corn-growing States of the West, and are consequently the great hog-raising States. The tacking season in the West has already commenced, and about this time may be said to be fairly under way. The partial failure of the cereal crops in those States during the past season has extended the pork-packing business, and that, together with the general depression in other business, has reduced the prices of pork. The lumberers and miners in the Lake Superior region and in Canada draw their supply from Chicago, and that is about the extent of all that has been done in that city this season. Packers are afraid to enter largely into the business without being assured of a profitable market, which they are not, and farmers are holding back for higher prices. Last year England took 500,000 hogs, but she does not seem disposed to take any this year; and this, with the addisional supply of 500,000 more for home consumption, has brought down the prices of pork between $5 to $10 in one week. The cattle plague in England has caused farmers to turn their attention more closely to hog and sheep raising, while the low price of grain used for feeding has furnished extra encouragement to this business in that country.

The receipts of hogs at Cincinnati from the 1st to the 26th inst., was 59,837 against 84,156 during the same period last year. The receipts this year have been unprecedentedly light, but this is accounted for by the fact that farmers have not been willing to seil at prices so much below those carrent last year. Last year Iowa packed and sent to market 1,700,000 hogs, and the suppry from that Sixt is expected to reach 2,500,000 hogs. The reshipment from country to reduce the hours of labor or to England of large quantities of that exportrun their mills on half time during the ed from the United States last year, and most ninety days, in order to allow the the failure of orders from the Southern trade to sink the large surplus of goods now States, which were expected to be large, eight or ten years, even when wool was what will come next. statement of the Albany Argus: We have never known prices to drop so rapidly and heavily as they have during the past five or six weeks. The losses saustined by dealers must be remarkably heavy—certainly over haif a million dollars on the beeves that have passed through our State, from the West since the middle of October, and probably heavy or quite as much on hors. One dealer who had about 1000 head of cuttle in market last week, lost a wards of S50 per head on them. He will have 1,000 head in this week, on which, it is altograther likely he will lose as much more. It is not monoming to hear of middle men who are losing every week $1,000 or more on droves of is not ancount on to hear of middle men who are losing every week $1,000 or more on droves of less than 100 head. Some have already exhausted their capital; others have swamped both capital and credit, and more mast so under. Nobody protends to know whether the bottom has been creeked, but buyers from New York and the fact are arting with great caution—buying only enough to supply regular customers, and are taking whatever clie that goes through their hands only on commission. There is no disposition to speculate.

"The trade of the past week was ugain dulf in time of fereign and Domestie Dry Goods, a Import Entries fall below the corresponding ok hart year, and the amount of foreign goods The Import Entries fall below the corresponding week hat year, and the amount of foreign goods marketed is not much over three and a hair millions—the custom duties being $1,739,000. The expert trade is improving, bean on the news from abroad, and the course of prices in breadstails and previsions on the corn exchange and large receipts of cotton. The latter exceed tweaty five thousand bales. The receipts of grain and floor by canal the present week are expected to be larger, the interruption to the Canal near Palmyra having been removed. The resing prices of breadstaffs, including Indian Corn, in the English markets, and the high figures in Sterling money, fo which corn and wheat have already been advanced, will, from information that has reached us in the last few days, lead to larger winter receipts by the rail-ways than have been known for several years. The same cause will produce extraordinary activity on the canals for the remaining three weeks of margation. The closing of the mains is officially amounced for the 12th of December. There is a good prospect they will not be interrupted by the before the appointed day. The Canal Commissioners have been petitioned to double their forces at the locks for the remainder of the season."
